What is a National Park?

There are over 400 National Park sites in the United States. They include parks, battlefields, monuments, seashores, historic sites, and recreation areas. The National Park Service (NPS) preserves these places because they are important to our nation.

National Park Service Mission

The National Park Service preserves the unimpaired natural and cultural resources and values of the National Park System for the enjoyment, education, and inspiration of this and future generations.

Fill in the blank with the correct word from below:

The _____ represents the wildlife protected by NPS

The _____ represents the plants protected by NPS

The _____ represents the geology protected by NPS

The _____ represents the natural resources (like clean air and water) protected by NPS

The _____ represents the history of our nation protected by NPS

Do Your Part

As a Ranger, it's our job to create respectful and safe environments for everyone to learn and explore their thoughts and feelings.

Conservation is Key

Do your part and help keep our parks clean. Make sure to pick up any trash. Conserve our soundscape by keeping your voices down.

Respect Wildlife

Pearl Harbor is home to many wild and marine life. Keep your distance! Don't try to chase, pet or feed them.

Be Kind to Other Visitors

The USS Arizona is the final resting place of nearly 900 sailors and marines.* Please be respectful of others space and use quiet voices while on the Memorial.

Be Prepared

Apply reef safe sunscreen and stay hydrated throughout your visit.

* The National Parks Service covers a vast range of locations around the United States. Often these locations are accompanied by stories of courage, perseverance and loss. Be prepared as some subject matter and themes might be upsetting to younger Ranger trainees. Discuss with your parent/guardian.

Road to War

Timelines tell us a story and helps us understand history.

They also tell us what happened when and how much time went by between events.

Follow the timeline to see examples of Japanese expansion, American development and the history of Pearl Harbor.

1. When did Japan begin their expansion? _____

2. When did the Pacific Fleet get assigned to Pearl Harbor? _____

Locate the USS Arizona Model at The Evolution of a Battleship Exhibit

Did You Know?

America's great battleships were basically "cities gone to sea." To adequately serve the thousands of men on board, they were equipped with dental offices, bakeries, and barber shops. For the crew's entertainment, they would even host competitions like boxing matches and band concerts on board!

What do you think it would be like to live on a military ship like this?

List three new facts you learned about the USS Arizona

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

O`ahu Court

The Legend of Ka`ahupāhau The Shark Goddess of Pu`uloa

On February 17, 1913, dry dock #1 structure rumbled, rocked and caved in. Workers had earlier complained how the dry dock was being built on the site of a temple once dedicated to Ka`ahupāhau, the Shark Goddess [who] had long before proclaimed that sorrow would come to anyone profaning the Pearl River basin and Pu`uloa (what we commonly call Pearl Harbor) today.

A worker on the dry dock named David Kanakeawe Richards...visited a local Kahuna, a priestess, who told him what should be done. Mr. Richards returned to Pearl Harbor and sprinkled wood and ashes over the dry dock as the Kahuna had instructed him, chanting in Hawaiian all the while. The Kahuna herself came by a few days later and after she had blessed the dry dock enterprise and appeased the goddess, she told Navy officials they would have no further trouble.

ATTACK GALLERY

Find "Tora, Tora, Tora" on the gallery wall.

What time did the attack begin? _____

Words Matter

Rangers help people understand the significance of the site(s) that they serve.

At places like Pearl Harbor National Memorial, understanding can lead to acknowledging feelings you may not fully be able to comprehend.
